An early start to fall quarters was proposed as a response to student financial needs and the battle against climate change, regardless of Business-As-Usual practices. Responses varied—

- a. This calendar change would negatively impact programs that rely on procedures not in alignment with this proposal.
- b. The Provost, Shane P. Martin, noted calendar changes for AY 21-22 was in response to a motion moved by the student government in AY 20-21: students expressed financial concerns related to travel expenses for the holiday season.
- c. The university could offer intercession courses during the holidays if the quarter were to begin (and end) early. This can promote improved budgeting and financing.
- d. AcA’s President and the Provost suggested tabling this discussion due to its complexity and impact on faculty, staff and students at the university-wide level.
 - i. A subcommittee examining feasible calendar changes can be formed, though, AcA must approve such a motion.
 - ii. A university-wide working group for calendar changes can be explored.

V. Provost Updates, Shane P. Martin 3:05 p.m. – 3:35 p.m.

The Provost offered the following updates:

- a. The work led by President Peñalver to update the Strategic Directions is still in process, including establishing working groups for Reimagining the Curriculum and other initiatives within the Strategic Directions.
- b. Academic program reviews and assessments will be paused for AY21-22, with necessary exceptions. This pause will foster opportunities to restructure and improve the program review process, which would better serve faculty.
- c. Each school/college will establish their own shared governance body consistent with the following “Statement on shared governance at the school/college level”:

Statement on shared governance at the school/college level

Shared governance at Seattle University requires effective and transparent functions at both the university and the school/college levels.

To ensure consistent governance standards and practices across the schools and colleges and foster effective integration with university-level shared governance, each school and college shall establish a shared governance body. This body shall operate under bylaws developed through broad consultation across the school or college faculty, endorsed by a faculty vote, endorsed by the dean, and approved by the provost. The bylaws of the governing body shall also be and remain in alignment with university policies, in particular the Faculty Handbook and Academic Assembly bylaws.

These school and college shared governance bodies will have the function of advising and informing subsequent levels of review and decision making including the dean, the appropriate university-level governance bodies, and the provost. Their scope will include advising on matters of curriculum, budget, space, faculty hiring and evaluation, and planning.

Schools and colleges are instructed either to develop bylaws or review/revise existing bylaws, to ensure they are in alignment with the requirements listed above. These documents will be sent to the provost by the end of fall quarter 2021 for review and approval.
