

Seattle University Criminal Justice Advisory Committee 2008 Annual Report

Outcome of 2004-2007 Advisory Committee Meetings

This year is the 5th anniversary of the Seattle University Criminal Justice Department Advisory Committee. The meetings over the past five years have been rewarding and productive and it has been exciting to see the committee grow each year and to have the rare opportunity to work with such a diverse group of CJ professionals. Our department's collaboration with this critical group of CJ representatives has been invaluable in terms of increasing opportunities for our students and enriching our curricular and extracurricular offerings in ways that allow students and faculty to make meaningful links between theory, research, and criminal justice practice. The following is a brief review of the past three meetings with elaboration on what we covered in last year's meeting:

2004: The primary objective of the first meeting was to discuss the purpose and goals of the committee and to receive feedback regarding our curriculum, employment trends, and possibilities for university-agency collaboration. We discussed current employment opportunities/trends, what can we do to make our students competitive in the job market and/or for graduate study upon graduation, collaborative partnership possibilities, how our department might be of service to local CJ agencies and/or to public education regarding crime and justice issues.

2005: The second meeting was another successful gathering. We discussed what a "criminal justice education for the future" should look like – what innovative programs excite and inspire committee members, and how our department can update and improve our curriculum and departmental offerings to better meet the needs of students who will be the CJ professionals of the 21st century. Committee members discussed the features of the ideal criminal justice program of the future and ideas about innovative collaborative initiatives can be developed unique our urban/NW/Seattle location to bridge academia and the local criminal justice community/theory and practice?

2006: In our third advisory committee meeting committee members focused on "Possibilities for SU-CJ Agency Collaborative Initiatives." The committee developed concrete CJ Department-CJ Agency collaboration ideas and identified priority projects to work on over the next 1-3 years. Priority projects included development of a criminal justice video, consider addition of a curriculum component on crime analysis/intelligence, and develop a catalog of research needs with potential for grants/funding for collaborative projects. The annual CJ Advisory Committee Member "Innovation in Criminal Justice Education Award" was established. Kelvin Crenshaw from ATF received the inaugural award.

2007: The specific discussion topic last year was “Implementing SU-CJ Agency Collaborative Initiatives.”

Three initiatives identified in the 2006 annual meeting were identified for focus of discussion to develop a plan for implementation:

- 1) Criminal Justice Video:
- 2) Adding a Crime Analysis/Intelligence Component to Curriculum
- 3) Cataloging Research Needs of Local Agencies/Collaborative Grants

The meeting opened with presentation of a 2-minute introductory video created by CJ Student Shawn Kaminski, Sakshi Sharma, and Communications student Joshua Guerci with the help of committee members Bonnie Glenn, Kelvin Crenshaw, and King County TV. The video presented an overview of the purpose of the project and call for help from committee members. The committee discussed next steps in the development of the video and responded to questions regarding the content of the video and also discussed the development of the crime analysis curricular component and developed a subcommittee to address. Regarding the research needs of local agencies, it was decided that the best way to approach this would be for CJ agencies interested in collaborating on research projects to contact the department with their individual requests and ideas as needed.

Advisory Committee Contributions in 2007-08

Bonnie Glenn, KC Prosecutor's Office and Kelvin Crenshaw, ATF worked with CJ students Shawn Kaminsky, Sakshi Sharma, Tera Brockman, Tiffany Hunter and Communications student Joshua Guerci to develop the "CJ Video"

Members of the advisory committee participated in the development of the CJ Video Project, headed by Bonnie Glenn, KC Prosecutor's Office and Kelvin Crenshaw, ATF and students Shawn Kaminski, Josh Guerci, Sakshi Sharma, Tiffany Hunter, and Tera Brockman, and with (an enormous amount of) assistance from SPD videographer Karim Miller. As part of the process of putting together the video, members of the advisory committee were interviewed. Some of these interviews are featured on the final CJ Dept video and all of them (in unedited format) will be available on the department website on an interactive web page for public view. Special thanks to advisory committee members and representatives from local CJ agencies who were willing to participate as interviewees for this project: Dan Satterberg (KC Prosecutor's Office), Jessica Sullivan (KC Sheriff), Suzanne Long (SPD), Brian Stampfl (SPD), Floris Mikkelson (TDA), David Miller (US Marshal), Mac Pevey (WA DOC), Tim McTighe (US Pretrial Services), Nick Starcevick (ATF), David Martin (KC Prosecutor's Office), Fred Bonner, Shirley Wilson (Municipal Court of Seattle), Rena Martinez (911 Communications Center), Tom Teicher (Interaction Transition), and SU faculty members A. Daktari Alexander, Matt Hickman, Elaine Gunnison, and Riva Zeff.

This project could absolutely not have been completed without the assistance of Karim Miller, Seattle Police Department videographer and the support of Chief Kerlikowske and SPD. Our department greatly appreciates the generous contribution of SPD, Bonnie Glenn and Kelvin Crenshaw and staff at KC Prosecutor's Office and ATF, and to King County TV in the development of the CJ video project! Special thanks also to Aren Kaser, Director of Marketing in the SU College of Arts & Sciences for his assistance in launching the interactive web component of the project. And last, but not least, thanks to CJ students – Shawn Kaminsky who served as primary student-coordinator for the year-long project, Tera Brockman, Tiffany Hunter, Sakshi Sharma for assisting with portions of the workload, and to communications/journalism major Joshua Guerri who conducted most of the videotaped interviews and who thought of the idea for the interactive web-based videos!

Departmental Update

ENROLLMENT/STUDENT INTEREST

As of Fall 2008, we have 239 criminal justice students enrolled in the Criminal Justice Department including 181 undergraduates, 58 graduate students, and 8 MACJ students co-enrolled in the Crime Analysis Certificate Program (See attached breakdown by degree/specialization). This is a decrease in undergraduates and increase in graduates (total enrollment in 2007 was 281 students -- 233 undergraduates, 45 graduates). In June 2008, 66 students graduate from the undergraduate program (53 with the BCJ degree and 13 with the BS) and our first-ever graduating class of 9 students from the Master of Arts in Criminal Justice program!

In the undergraduate program, 138 (78%) students are working toward the BCJ (Bachelor of Criminal Justice) and 43 (22%) toward the Bachelor of Science (BS). The BCJ Administration of Justice, BCJ Forensic Psychology and BS Forensic Science are the most popular specialization areas however there is significant interest in all specialization areas. The undergraduate student organizations (CJ Club and CJ Honor Society) continue to flourish with many student-sponsored CJ events including holding events during National Victim Rights/ Awareness Week, defensive tactics training (offered by Rob Mahoney and James Kim from SPD), presentations by local CJ agencies, prison tours, trips to the shooting range and more.

MACJ Student Rene Matson, Hired as a CCO1 with WA DOC

In the graduate program, the most popular program routes for graduate students are the MACJ no concentration (24 students) and the MACJ-Investigative Criminology concentration (28 students). The Victimology concentration has 5 students who are interested in working in victim services and/or in research on victimology and victim services. The Research and Evaluation concentration area has the lowest enrollment with only 1 student in the 2nd year of the program designating this concentration. The graduate students include a diverse mix of criminal justice professionals and students coming from traditional undergraduate programs with an increasing number of students coming from out of state and from local criminal justice agencies. Students are coming to the program from Criminal Justice, Psychology, Sociology and other disciplines (such as Anthropology, Information Technology, Political Science) from local universities such as WSU, CWU, UW, EWU, Saint Martin's, Evergreen and from out-of-state universities in Alaska, Montana, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, California, and elsewhere and from as far away as Korea and several of the incoming students for 2008-09 have JD degrees. CJ Professionals in the MACJ program include criminal justice professionals from the Seattle Police Department, King County Sheriff, King County Prosecutor's Office, WA State Department of Corrections, WA State Liquor Control Board, Seattle University Public Safety, U.S. Investigations, and private investigative services.

Since 2006-07, 15 students have been awarded "Criminal Justice Professional Fellowships" of $7,000 over the course of the 2-year degree program and three students were awarded the $2,000 Corr Scholarship. This year's CJ Professional Fellowship awardees are: Jeffrey Brown, Criminal Defense Attorney, Benjamin Eigner, Fire Investigator with Case Forensics, Molly Mee, Investigator with U.S. Investigations Services, Sasha Powers, King County Prosecutor's Office, Tammy Kynett, King County Sheriff's Office. The Corr Awardee for 2008-09 is Kelli Glasgow who recently received a position with the FBI.

The new Crime Analysis Program currently has 7 students enrolled. All are co-enrolled in the MACJ program. We are hoping to try to recruit additional students for 2009-10 who are not currently enrolled in the graduate program. A new course has been added to the MACJ curriculum that is required for the Crime Analysis Certificate Program and offered as an elective for the MACJ program. We are in the process of reviewing potential adjunct faculty for the new "data and intelligence analysis" course offered summer quarter and required for the program.
