ACCREDITATION GRANTED FOR DOCTOR OF NURSING PRACTICE AND POST-GRADUATE CERTIFICATE PROGRAMS

The Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) has granted Seattle University College of Nursing accreditation for its Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) program and Post-Graduate Advanced Practice Nurse Practitioner Certificate program for 5 years, effective April 13, 2015 to December 31, 2020.

“Accreditation provides assurance to those who come to learn with us and those who employ our graduates that Seattle University College of Nursing offers DNP and Post-Graduate Advanced Practice programs that are academically solid. At the Seattle University College of Nursing, our mission is to educate and inspire leaders at the BSN through Doctoral levels to transform healthcare for a just and humane world,” said Dean, Kristen M. Swanson, RN, PhD, FAAN.

Seattle University College of Nursing has long offered opportunities for professional nurses to expand their scope of practice. Post-Graduate study options at the College of Nursing include a full complement of advanced practice specialties, including Advanced Community Public Health and certificate programs for Acute Care Nurse Practitioner, Adult-Gerontological Nurse Practitioner, Family Nurse Practitioner, Family Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner, and Nurse Midwifery.

The Doctor of Nursing Practice program at Seattle University prepares nurses to lead and transform care systems from a foundation of Jesuit values and social justice. Since it began in 2012, the program has grown from 4 to 15 students in each cohort with a total number of 11 graduates.

“Students in the DNP program come from a wide variety of backgrounds

DR. KATHERINE CAMACHO CARR AND DR. ANNE HIRSCH INDUCTED AS FELLOWS IN THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF NURSING (FAAN)

As one of the most prestigious honors in nursing, Fellows of the Academy of Nursing are nominated and selected based on their strong leadership skills and significant contributions to nursing and health care.

Dean Kristen Swanson congratulated them both on their selection saying, "Induction into the American Academy of Nursing is a very important milestone in marking a nurse scholar's career achievements and contributions to health care."

Katherine Camacho Carr, PhD, ARNP, CNM, FACNM, FAAN, is a Professor and DNP Clinical Internship Coordinator at Seattle University College of Nursing. Since joining the college in 2003 she has served in many vital leadership roles, including Assistant Dean of Graduate Education and the Jean Bushman Endowed Chair for Vulnerable Populations. As an experienced nurse-midwife she is also prepared as an international consultant to assist developing communities with safe motherhood and child survival training. Her teaching, research and clinical expertise have taken her around globe. Dr. Carr is a Fellow of the American College of Nurse-Midwives. In 2009, she received the ACNM lifetime achievement award, the Hattie Hemschemeyer Award. Dr. Camacho Carr continues to be a strong advocate for the reduction of maternal and infant mortality and morbidity through strengthening midwifery and nursing education and practice both at Seattle University and globally.

Anne Hirsch, PhD, ARNP, FAANP, FAAN, is Associate Dean for Graduate Education and Professor at the SU College of Nursing. She has had a significant impact on nursing education and the profession through her leadership roles and active participation in many professional organizations. Dr. Hirsch is currently the President-Elect for the Council of Nurse Educators in Washington

VISITING SCHOLARS

Dr. Debra Barksdale, PhD, FNP-BC, ANP-BC, CNE, FAANP, FAAN, Patient-Centered Research and Practice: Integrating Perspectives to Achieve Quality Outcomes. Dean's Annual Lecture, May 21, 2015.

Dr. Debra J. Barksdale was the keynote speaker at the 2015 Dean's Annual Lecture. Dr. Barksdale is a Professor and Director of the DNP program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Nursing.

In her lecture, she discussed her work with the Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI). Dr. Barksdale was the only nurse appointed to the Board of Governors when PCORI was formed in 2010 by the U.S. Government Accountability Office under the Obama Administration. In 2012, she was reappointed for six more years to PCORI and chairs the Engagement, Dissemination and Implementation Committee, one of the organization's three strategy committees. Her scholarship focuses on the intersections of social, psychological, and biological risk factors associated with cardiovascular disease especially as it impacts the health of aging African Americans.

This Dean's Annual Lecture is a public event sponsored by the College of Nursing that features keynote lectures from notable nursing leaders in order to promote topics and discussion important to the profession of nursing and nursing education.

Julian Perez, PhD, Equity of Justice: Medical-Legal Partnerships in Primary Health Care. Lunchtime Scholar Series, April 10, 2015. Presented jointly with SU School of Law.

Last spring, SU's College of Nursing and School of Law teamed up to bring Dr. Julian Perez to campus for a lunchtime presentation with over 100 SU students, faculty and staff in attendance. Perez is a family physician who has cared for immigrant and migrant worker patients in the Seattle area for over a decade. In his presentation, he discussed social determinants of health as they affect our underserved patients and also how medical-legal partnerships can reduce bottlenecks and barriers to care with meaningful health gain outcomes.

Maja Söderbäck, PhD, Children's Rights Perspective in Health Care. Lunchtime Scholar Series, April 20, 2015.

Dr. Maja Söderbäck, Associate

Professor at Mälardalen University, School of Health, Care and Social welfare, visited the College of Nursing in April 2015. During her visit she gave a lunchtime presentation discussing her work in children's rights in health care. Söderbäck's work in this area is groundbreaking, focusing on child centered care in outpatient settings and empowerment of parents and children across health care systems.

Söderbäck is a senior lecturer at Mälardalen University's School of Health, Care and Social Welfare. Seattle University and Mälardalen University are partner universities in an exchange program for nursing students and faculty. The program allows for the bilateral exchange of undergraduate students to study nursing in the respective host university for several weeks. This partnership also provides SUCON faculty opportunities to collaborate with MDH faculty on pedagogical improvement and innovation as well as scholarly growth and productivity.

MIDWIFERY STUDENTS AND FACULTY TRAVEL TO TANZANIA TO PARTICIPATE IN 'SURVIVE & THRIVE PROJECT'

Seattle University midwifery faculty members, Dr. Katherine Camacho Carr and Dr. Terri Clark, travelled to Tanzania with two of their students, Anne Leone (MSN-CNM '14) and Alison Conti (MSN-CNM '14) for 2 weeks in 2014 as part of the USAID Survive & Thrive Project.

The Survive & Thrive project is a Global Development Alliance, with participant organizations including the American College of Nurse-Midwives (ACNM), American College of Obstetrician Gynecologists, the American Academy of Pediatrics, Laerdal, Johnson and Johnson and Jhpiego. The focus of the Survive and Thrive project is the reduction of maternal and infant mortality and morbidity in low resource countries through the improvement of midwifery education and practice.

The midwifery students, Anne Leone and Alison Conti, were selected to participate in this project as part of its Global Scholars Program. Its purpose is to expose health provider students, including midwives, nurses and physicians, to work in global development under the mentorship of an experienced provider in their field.

The Seattle University Midwifery team, paired with Tanzanian nurse-midwives and local Ministry of Health personnel, conducted an assessment of nursing and midwifery education in rural northwest Tanzania, which has some of the highest prevalence of poor maternal and infant outcomes.

The group broke into teams to visit two nursing schools in Tanzania, the Ndolage School of Nursing and Rubya School of Nursing. Each team conducted interviews with faculty, administered questionnaires to students and graduates, and conducted objective standardized clinical exams with alumni participants to identify curriculum strengths and weaknesses and to assess knowledge and skill retention.

Drs. Camacho Carr and Clark are currently in discussions regarding a future trip to begin collaborative work with the Tanzanian Ministry of Health and other stakeholders in order to strengthen their pre-service and in-service nursing and midwifery curriculum.

THE PURPOSE OF THE GLOBAL SCHOLARS PROGRAM IS TO EXPOSE HEALTH PROVIDER STUDENTS, INCLUDING MIDWIVES, NURSES AND PHYSICIANS, TO WORK IN GLOBAL DEVELOPMENT UNDER THE MENTORSHIP OF AN EXPERIENCED PROVIDER IN THEIR FIELD.

2015 EILEEN RIDGWAY SCHOLARS

ESTABLISHED IN MAY 1996, THE DR. EILEEN RIDGWAY ENDOWED NURSING SCHOLARSHIP AIMS TO KINDLE AND FUEL LEADERSHIP BY ENCOURAGING STUDENT DEVELOPMENT IN COMMUNITY OUTREACH, SERVICE, AND CIVIC EFFORTS. DR. EILEEN RIDGWAY SERVED AS THE DEAN OF THE SEATTLE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF NURSING FROM 1968-1977.

MELANIE KRISTOFERSON (MSN-PMHNP '16)

Melanie Kristoferson, a graduate student in the Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner Program, was selected for her proposed project that focused on the development and implementation of a coordinated patient-centered care plan for high risk middle school students who are in crisis or at risk for a crisis.

Melanie is working with students, school staff and families to create a documented and shared crisis prevention/intervention process. Her hope is to demonstrate how assisting adolescents at a critical time in their lives-with a holistic approach to their care-could make a pivotal, life changing difference.

Melanie says, "My goal with my Ridgway project is to make a meaningful difference for young people in crisis or at risk of crisis by providing them with a coordinated support system. I especially like working at the root of a problem, so this project appeals to me in that it allows for a system-level change that will impact youth on a larger scale. In my future practice as a Psych NP, I hope to emphasize prevention alongside intervention, as this project does."

SODA FALL (BSN '16)

Soda Fall is a senior in the Bachelor of Science in Nursing program. Her Ridgway service project is centered on improving the "basic" living and health conditions of the community of Labgar located in the region of Guadiaye in Senegal. Soda says, "Rural communities, particularly villages in Africa, are most affected by poverty and illiteracy. Clean water and safe learning environment are very important factors for the development of not only the community of Labgar in Senegal but Africa in general."

In 2008, Soda created a 501c(3) nonprofit organization called Karimoul Ndongo Daara Foundation with the mission to help improve the quality of life of all people, mainly those of low socioeconomic status in underdeveloped countries of Africa. Her foundation's goal is to provide tools for a better education and healthcare system, and hygiene and sanitation awareness by offering hygienic products, wells for clean water, wheelchairs, food, school supplies, and clothing.

As part of her Ridgway Scholarship, Soda says that she hopes to provide a better "learning environment for children, particularly in higher education; to establish income-generating projects for the villagers and to build clinics that will provide basic preventative care for women, children and their families."

BUILDING STRONG RELATIONSHIPS

SUSAN B. MATT APPOINTED ASSISTANT DEAN FOR ADJUNCT FACULTY AFFAIRS

Dr. Susan B. Matt, PhD, JD, RN, MN, CNE, has taken on a new role within the College of Nursing as Assistant Dean for Adjunct Faculty Affairs.

“I’m extremely excited about my new appointment, and I look forward to creating a welcoming and engaging environment for our adjunct faculty,” said Matt. “I recognize how difficult it is for part-time faculty to feel part of our community, given their primary commitments to full-time employers elsewhere.”

In her new role, Dr. Matt plans to establish an Adjunct Faculty Committee on Engagement to focus on opportunities to engage adjunct faculty members in the College of Nursing community. Matt also said that she would like to spend time visiting community clinical partners “to develop relationships that will facilitate recruitment of excellent, qualified bedside nurses as adjunct faculty.” She believes that building these relationships supports “a common goal to ensure excellent educational experiences for student nurses to ensure that they will become excellent nurses serving the larger community.”

Dr. Matt joined the College of Nursing in 2008. Her clinical background is in neurological and rehabilitative nursing. Dr. Matt is also an attorney whose practice focuses on disability law and guardianships. In her nursing research, she is interested in nurses with disabilities, attitudes towards individuals with disabilities globally, and bullying in nursing, particularly in nursing education. In addition, she has a strong interest in legal and ethical issues in health care.

A COMMITMENT TO EXCELLENCE IN NURSING

DANUTA M. WOJNAR APPOINTED ASSOCIATE DEAN FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

This fall, Dr. Danuta M. Wojnar, PhD, RN, MEd, IBCLC, FAAN, expanded her role within the College of Nursing as the newly appointed Associate Dean for Undergraduate Studies.

“My service to the profession and Seattle University is driven by my strong commitment to excellence in nursing,” said Wojnar.

Over the past 10 years, Dr. Wojnar has taught across the undergraduate and graduate nursing curricula. She served as Chair of the Department of Maternal/ Child and Family Nursing from 2010-2015. Her activities on a national level include service on the American Nurses Association Steering Committee to identify Barriers to RN Scope of Practice, American Academy of Nursing Expert Panel on RNs in Primary Care, Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Executive Nurse Fellows Leadership Action Project to identify the optimal roles for RNs in primary care settings, and service on the International Board of Lactation Consultant Examiners/ Lactation Education Review and Program Approval Committee.

Her areas of scholarship include interventions to support non-traditional families in their transition to parenthood and responses to miscarriage, and the promotion of health care without stigmatization.
