

Harnessing the Unique Role of Faith Actors to Protect Vulnerable Children from Gang Violence and Organized Crime in the Northern Triangle and Mexico

Date: February 23 - Time: 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. EST

Co-Organizers: Alliance for the Protection of the Children and End Violence Partnership

Program

Introductory remarks:

C.P. Rabindranath Salazar Solorio
Undersecretary of Democratic Development, Social Participation and Religious Affairs, Secretariat of the Interior (SEGOB), Government of México.

Adam Nicholas Phillips
Director, Local, Faith and Transformative Partnerships Hub & Center for Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships, USAID.

Key Note:

Dr. Howard Taylor
Executive Director, End Violence Partnership.

Panel Discussion:

Sharing of experiences and perspectives in supporting faith-actors for the prevention of violence against children:

Silvia Mazzarelli
Alliance for the Protection of Children.

Mtro. Héctor Miranda Anzá
Head of Unit for Religious Affairs, Prevention and Reconstruction of Social Fabric, Secretariat of the Interior, Government of Mexico.

Jennifer Walsh
Senior Program Officer for the US and Latin America, under the Catholic Sisters Initiative at the Conrad N. Hilton Foundation.

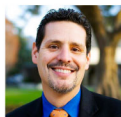

Sister María Guadalupe Martínez González
Program Coordinator in Mexico City, for the Sisters Leadership Development Initiative for Latin America, Rahamim Anti-Human trafficking Network of Sisters in Mexico.

Closing:

Serena Cosgrove
PhD, Associate Professor in International Studies, Seattle University.

Event Moderated by:

Rev. Dr. David Vásquez-Levy
President, Pacific School of Religion, and CWS Board Member.

The session will be held on zoom in English with interpretation available in Spanish.
Register in advance for this webinar using the annexed link.