

Faculty Research Lightning Talks

Thursday, October 27th

12:30-1:30pm via Zoom

Join us as we kick off this year's Lightning Talks series with presentations from the 2022 Summer Faculty Fellows. Learn more about your colleagues' scholarship and make inter-disciplinary connections! RSVP here to receive the Zoom link.

Alexandra Adame, College of Arts & Sciences

How the Self Changes in Eating Disorder Recovery

John Carter, College of Science and Engineering

Models of Water Waves in Shallow Water

Serena Cosgrove, College of Arts and Sciences

Heal Her, Heal the Country: Composing Stories about Women's Postconflict Agency

Julie Crow, College of Arts and Sciences

unVAERified: Polysemy, Power and the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System

Brittany Heintz Walters, College of Arts and Sciences

Prototype Testing of a Soft Robot for Hand Rehabilitation in Stroke

Dylan Helliwell, College of Science & Engineering

Taxicab Geometry

Alexander Johnston, College of Arts and Sciences

Cozy, Cuddly, Armed and Dangerous

Sponsored by the Office of Sponsored Projects and the Lemieux Library and McGoldrick Learning Commons

